Rick,

It's been a lot years since our families were neighbors on Grant Dr. .. I remember lots of swimming in your pool, discussions about Democrats vs. Republicans, Huron vs. Pioneer, Irish vs. English, & lots more! Then on thru the taxi years and up until the "coach" years & now. You've got a good head on your shoulders and have always been loyal to our family .... a good, kind guy with a nice sense of humor. Don't change anything! We love ya!

INVITATION

If you are a dreamer, come in,
If you are a dreamer, a wisher, a liar,
A hope-er, a pray-er, a magic bean buyer . . .
If you're a pretender, come sit by my fire
For we have some flax-golden tales to spin.
Come in!
Come in!

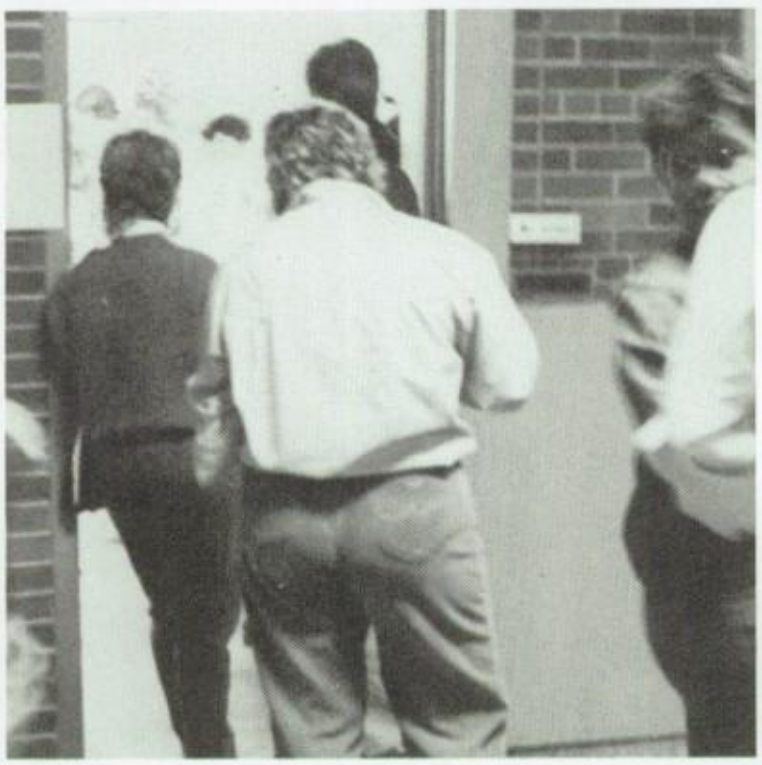
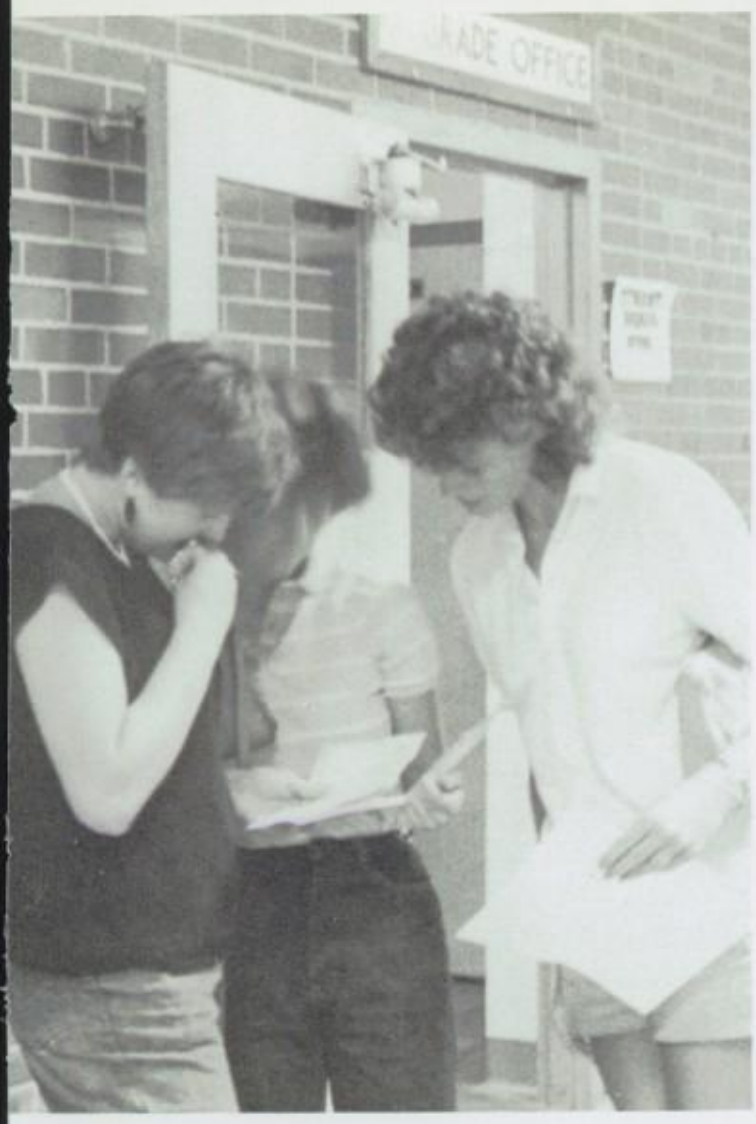
BACK TO SCHOOL





Let's go for a short trip down memory lane. I want you to think back to the last days of summer when a yellow ditto found its way into your mailbox and summoned you from your suntan lotion, flip-flops, and madras shorts to endure the rites of registration.

In the corridors of our beloved school Pioneer High, we found evidence that some poor creature had made its home the A Hall Driver's Ed. Office. Groups of stunned students stood, appalled at the tangle of lines and signs scattered everywhere.

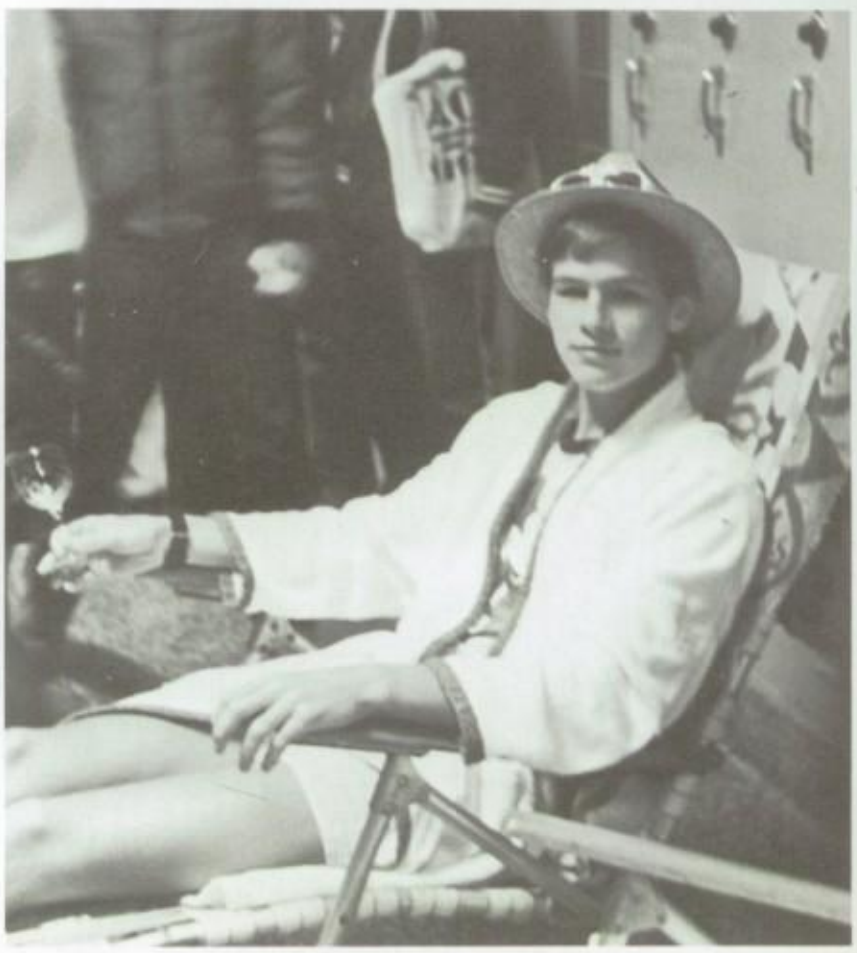
You remember the first thing you do is to get your Pioneer ID card validated? This is to make sure no communists get into our school. Pull yours out now and look at it. (Mine's right here next to my Cub Scout card.) Along the bottom there are four boxes with numbers in them. I would like to take this time to clear up a long standing question at Pioneer, namely: What do these numbers mean? This year's number is the last digit of your graduation year times the number of years old you are minus the number of pets you own divided by your blood alcohol level times the function squared of science and math averages in March. The simple formula to remember is:

$$ID# = ((G^{*}Y)-p)/bC_2H_5OH((MS+SS)_3)^2$$

Next you go stand in another line, write your name on a sheet of paper, stand in yet another line and pick up 100 pieces of paper and the medical forms! It's enough to make you demand your right to remain silent and talk to your lawyer first! They ask personal questions like: "Do you really love your little sister? Have you ever suffered from peritonitis? What is your family doctor's middle initial if different from your own? Who plays better music, Duran Duran or the Violent Femmes? What is the fastest land animal?"

After getting to the end of the jungle at about 5.1 cm/min. you get the wonderful news that you've got an E Hall locker and your closest class is in A Hall. You've got a half sheet of yellow computer paper with all the wrong classes on it and they've spelled your name wrong. Student Council wants you to fill out a questionaire, the athletic department wants you to buy buttons and key chains and the PTSO wants you to pay your dues. You probably have to buy a new backpack because the three tons of books you just got from the book depository simply do not fit in your old one — there goes the last of the summer earnings. It is then you say to yourself: "Self, it's good to be back in school!"

HOMECOMING



Who can forget Homecoming Week of Fall 1984? Try to think of just one word to describe it. If you're a Sophomore, the closest you can come is probably, "Oh well." For juniors, "Check out the plane!!" If you're a Senior it's even tougher. That word comes from a feeling nearly too deep for words. That one word is "PARTY!!!"

Homecoming was a week of masquerade and fun, success (for most of us) and failure (for some of us), anticipation and excitement. During the week Pioneer didn't always look like Pioneer. It looked like Woodstock (Oldies/Clash Day), Malibu (Beach Day), the Roman Colosseum (Toga Day), Delta house (remember the toga party in Animal House?), India (Going Hollywood Day) and even Batman's Gotham City.

The week was full of surprises such as the first annual keg decorating contest, the "middle class"'s tug-of-war victory and airplane banner, the senior male cheerleaders' limousine entrance Friday morning, the "quickie method" Senior class pyramid, and the honoring of Ann Arbor's three Olympians at the spectacular halftime show of the football game.

The coincidental scheduling of Homecoming Week on Yom Kippur led to a few alterations in the usual activities as did the new split lunch system. Activities included the cake decorating contest, class pyramids, class yell, class song, tug-of-war, the four-legged race, the foreign language soccer game, costume contest, class banners, male cheerleading, and powder puff football. As seemingly preordained, the seniors were victorious in earning the most points in the class competitions. Beth Kelsch and Jeff Kabat were proclaimed Homecoming Queen and King and Purple Reigned as Pioneer decimated Monroe in the 44 - 0 football game. The band Surreal Estate played at the Homecoming dance which rounded off the week on Saturday night.

This is it: The big "senior article." The article seems to say the same things every year, but they sound different and more important when said about the class that you, as a senior, are a part of. The truth is, there's more to the senior year than what is normally mentioned in the senior article (applications for college, football games, and Ft. Lauderdale). Hopefully, there's also more to the senior year than rehashing old memories of things past, such as Physics labs and Humanities tests. Growth and maturity accompany the senior year — a new awareness of the world and your place in it. Sure, the year may start out as your last chance to have fun before assuming responsibilities, but it eventually turns into a chance to become more confident about yourself and your plans for the future.

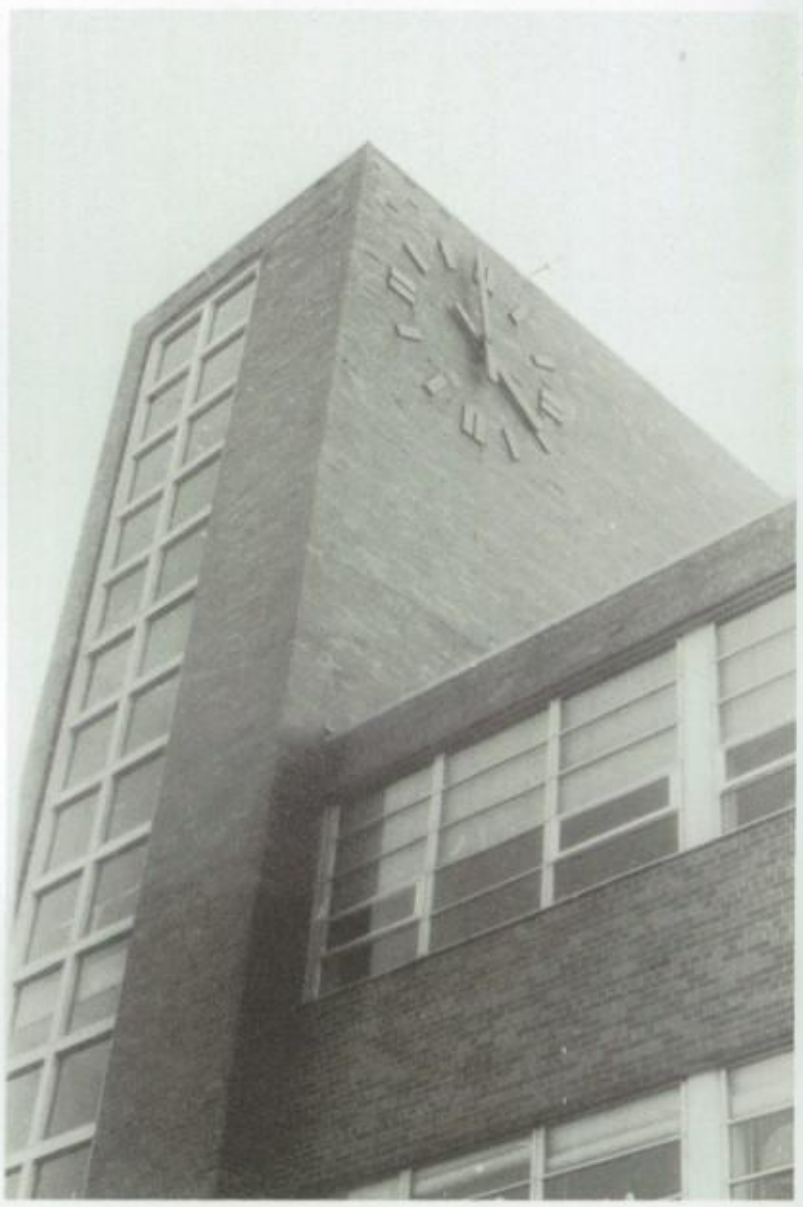
During the senior year, you seem to lose some of those superficial friends that you had last year and make new friends whom you respect and trust. You start to spend less time doing things because others are doing them, and more time doing what you want to do. You become comfortable with yourself and thus more of an individual. You earn respect from friends and peers because you deserve it. You're in a good position as a senior; you can start taking responsibility for yourself, but you also still have your parents to fall back on when things don't work out. It's a time of testing and trying, seeing what works and what doesn't. In the end, you come up with an idea of what does work and take this with you into your future.

In June of 1985, the graduating senior is not the same person who walked into Pioneer in September. Each is more confident about himself and his future. And when these positive feelings are mixed with the anxious anticipation of graduation, senior life becomes an unforgettable experience. As you read this article in June, it means something to you that it doesn't mean to the juniors and sophomores. And when you leave this building, you'll leave with the confidence and maturity that has been just as much a part of your year as football games and Ft. Lauderdale.

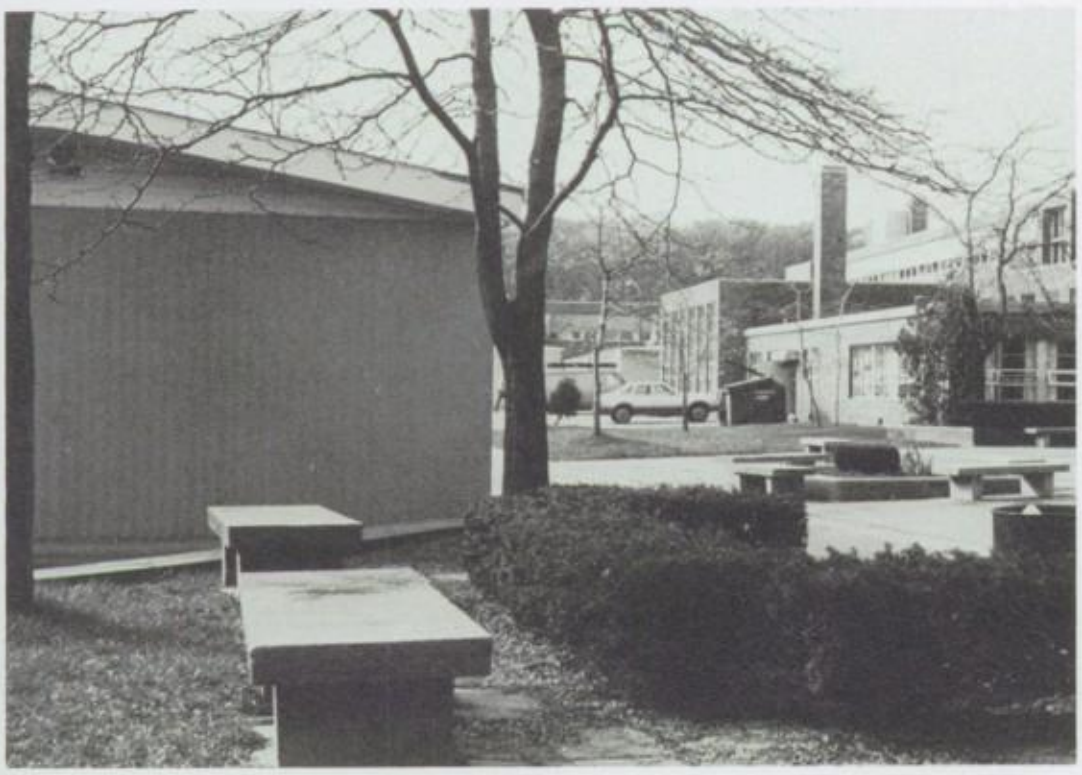
THE BUILDING . . .

Spring cleaning?

You can get in, but you can't get out



The clock tower



So its not the most beautiful structure in the history of civilization. But it is our school — the building in which we spend approximately 4,107 hours over the course of three years.

When founded in 1856, the school was called the Union School, and was housed on South State Street in a building which burned down. It was then replaced by what is now the university-owned Frieze Building. In 1956, Ann Arbor High School relocated in the present building and has since been renamed Pioneer High School.

Architecturally, the building is of no particular distinction and we may not have the luxury of the air-conditioning our competitors across town enjoy, but what goes on inside its walls provides the foundation on which we build our lives in the real world.

The End of a DOUBLE LECTURE

THE YEAR IN NEWS AND SCIENCE

There were some scandals, some good causes, and many scientific breakthroughs. 1984 brought upon the resignation of our first black Miss America after nude photographs of her were discovered in Penthouse magazine. The John DeLorean trial continued throughout 1984 and into 1985. Mr. DeLorean, the millionaire car designer, accused of illegally selling cocaine resorted to the request of money from the public to help pay legal fees. Christine DeLorean, who had remained behind him through the whole ordeal, finally left her husband in 1984. The third heir to the British throne was born to Charles and Diana and was christened Harry. A popular cause among America's general public was the renovation of our Statue of Liberty. The statue is located right off Manhattan Island in New York City. Public donations were collected from private citizens and public enterprises. The Statue of Liberty was given to the United States by France in 1886 and is being restored to help celebrate her 100 years anniversary in 1986. The statue symbolizes our country's freedom and opportunity, a cause justly maintained.

In a year for science and medicine, the second artificial heart was successfully implanted in the body of William Schroeder, and Baby Fae was given an opportunity to live, upon receiving a baboon's heart, an organ similar to the human heart. NASA continued to launch its space shuttle and successfully used it for the purpose of maintaining satellites and repairing them in space. Following the test tube baby boom, the first baby was born of a frozen embryo. Richard Leakey and Alan Walker found a Homo Erectus skull and the hand of Proconsul, who walked the earth 18 million years ago.

Every year, scientific advancements are made that would have been inconceivable to the world centuries or even decades earlier. This past year was no exception. The space shuttle Discovery retrieved 70 million dollars worth of reusable space debris. The cloning of skin cells from two badly burned individuals proved a life saving advancement. Scientists mapped the surface of Venus from the data sent back by the Pioneer Venus. Surgeon William DeVries received federal permission to perform a second artificial human heart implant. The recipient, William Schroeder, was able to get out of bed and be interviewed on national television just days after the operation. DeVries was offered a job at the Human Hospital, where he will have millions of dollars for research allowing him to implant as many as 100 artificial hearts.

Just days before Schroeder received his implant, Baby Fae received her unique heart transplant. Born with a fatal cardiac defect, Baby fae's own heart kept her alive for only twelve days. Baby Fae's transplanted baboon heart experimentally kept her alive for twenty more days before she died of kidney failure. In the experimentation stages, four other humans have received animal hearts, Baby Fae being the only infant.

Joe Leyland is the first human baby to be developed from a frozen embryo. Her mother's eggs were fertilized outside her body and preserved in liquid nitrogen at 320 F.

When two young brothers were burned over more than 90% of their bodies, doctors were able to use a remarkable new treatment to save them. By cloning the boys own cells, the doctors grew large sheets of skin which they laid over the burns. The cloned skin eventually bonded itself to the damaged area. Previously, there was no permanent treatment.

In geophysics, researchers produced the first three dimensional maps of the interior of the earth to depths of up to 1,800 miles. This will increase our understanding of volcanoes and earthquakes as well as the earth's history. In addition, geologists continued to explore underwater vents. They discovered that the vents in the Pacific Ocean regularly release minerals and other chemicals into the sea. Oceanographers have been searching for life forms where they previously believed they could not exist.

Another particle, the sixth Quark, thought to be one of the building blocks of matter and its lifetimes, was discovered. The men who won the 1984 Nobel Prize for Chemistry discovered a way for proteins to be synthesized. All the advancements that have been made this year have made notable history in the science world.

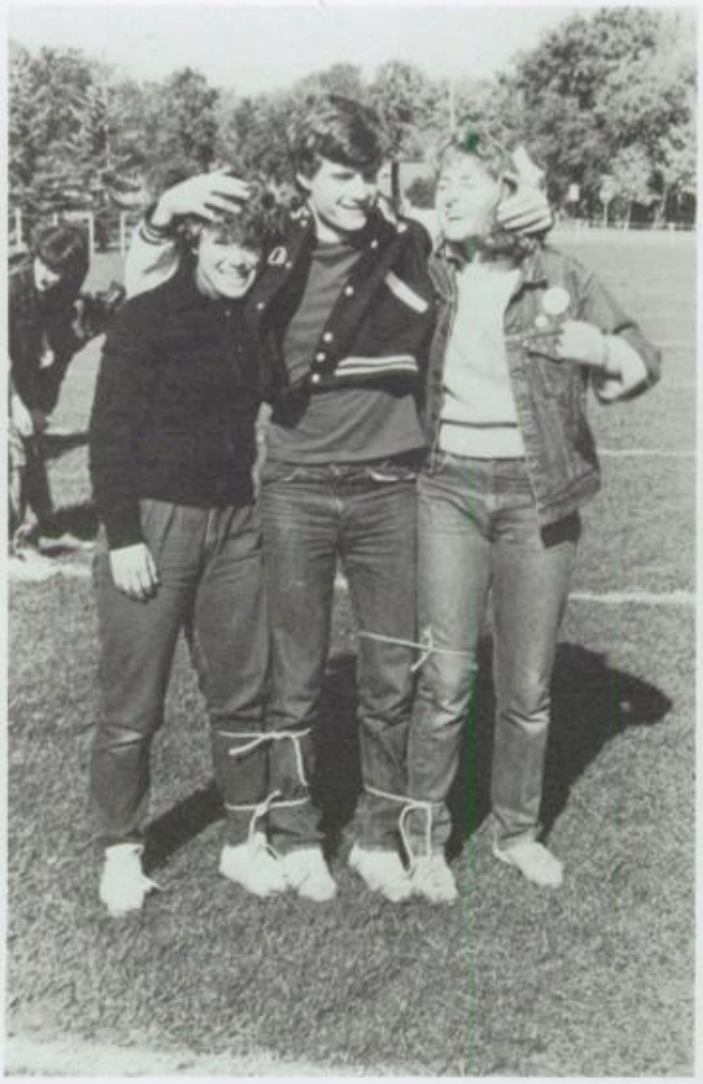
PI HI JUNIORS OF 86 RULE!

What is a Junior? Good question! Being a Junior is more fun than being a Sophomore because we know what to expect and what is expected of us. And we also get the satisfaction of watching the Sophomores make the same mistakes that we MADE last year. One of the best things about being a Junior is finally being able to drive on our own. No more phone calls at Schneiders! And we aren't Seniors, who are under the pressure of making the decisions about what to do next year. But being a Junior isn't always fun and games. We have to make it through a whole year of chem. labs., term papers, the PSAT, and the SAT's. '86 isn't just any "JUNIOR CLASS." Who will ever forget the plane that flew around Hollway Field stating "Pi-Hi Juniors, Class of '86 rule!" No one will ever forget the Class of '86 — the class with Class!

FRIENDS



Through the years spent at Pioneer High School, we not only obtain an education, but also develop valuable friendships. Without these special people, school would just not be the same. Could we have made it this far without the support, advice, loyalty, and company of friends?

There were those countless study sessions before big tests which were both enlightening and enlivening as we often ended up discussing topics considerably more interesting than the materials to be studied. How many times can you remember being on the telephone with a friend in the wee hours of the morning, motivating each other to finish that one last chapter before a test? Remember giving advice on every topic imaginable, expounding your latest philosophic theory, or just gabbing about nothing in particular? Who else but a friend would put up with all those complaints? Friends refrain from laughing while you deliberate over whether or not to ask out that guy or girl you are convinced will be your true love, listen to you gripe about your teachers, parents, and the terrible injustices that are inseparable from being a teenager. They tolerate your fits of manic depression one day and still manage to laugh with you the next.

Your friends accept you for the person you are and don't prevent you from changing. They may not always agree with you, but they let you make your own mistakes and rarely say "I told you so." They put up with your quirks and habits which would drive any sane person crazy. They don't reprimand you for your messy room and merely grit their teeth as you listen to your favorite song for the millionth time, singing off key at the top of your lungs.

As friends we have attended school events and extended our friendships to our lives outside school. Though we may eventually lose touch with many of these friends, there will probably be a few we will still see now and again in future years. And you won't forget these people who helped you through moments of happiness and sorrow to become the person you are.

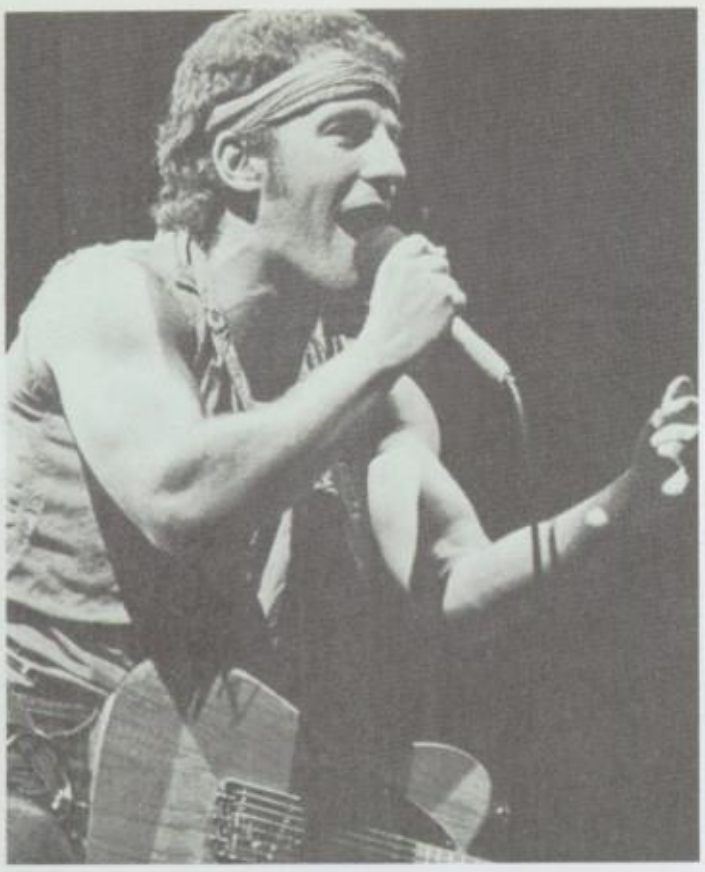
THE YEAR IN MUSIC



Big name groups, such as Prince with the Revolution and the Jacksons, increased in popularity, performing consecutive nights in Joe Louis Arena and the Pontiac Silverdome, respectively. The Jacksons' greatly acclaimed Victory Tour launched the Michael Jackson market, which promoted Michael Jackson posters, buttons, fashion gloves, and even a Michael Jackson doll. Purple Rain, the movie, and Prince's tour with the Revolution contributed to Prince's growth in popularity in the Detroit area and nationwide. Purple Rain, the movie, promoted the album by the same name and featured groups as the Time and Apollonia 6. Other movies of the year were Dune featuring Sting, the lead singer of the Police, and Stop Making Sense with Talking Heads. Lionel Ritchie dominated the charts, holding the number two and number one position of the year with "Stuck on You" and "Hello." Although Elvis Costello remained primarily a cult figure, he performed in Ann Arbor's Hill Auditorium. Chicago, the seven member group, awed audiences at Cobo Arena in early December, promoting their latest album Chicago 17. From the album, such songs as "Hard Habit to Break" and "You're the Inspiration," hit the charts. A newcomer following in his father's footsteps was Julian Lennon, making a name for himself in the rock scene. The trends toward androgeny occur in the music scene today. Starting with Michael Jackson, Boy George, and Duran Duran such asexual characteristics are also seen in women with Annie Lennox of the Eurythmics and Grace Jones. New faces includes those of Wham who gained fame through hit songs, "Wake Me Up Before You Go" and "Careless Whispers." On the rock line, groups as Twisted Sister firmly state "We're Not Gonna Take It Anymore," and became unmistakable in magazines and on MTV.

During Christmas 1984, Band Aid was formed as a non profit fund raiser to aid the starving people of Ethiopia. Band Aid was started by solo artist David Bowie and created the single "Do They Know It's Christmas?" The group features over 15 solo and group artists, including Banarama, Culture Club, Duran Duran, Frankie Goes to Hollywood, Phil Collins, Paul McCartney, Boomtown Rats, Spandau Ballet, Sting, U2, Wham, and many more. All profits made by the single went to share a little Christmas sharing and caring.

There we were again at the bottom of the heap. It was like stepping back in time, to the first year of junior high school. Awed by the distance we had to walk between classes, overwhelmed by homework and the expectations of teachers, we felt overshadowed by the upperclassmen. There seemed to be nothing about high school life which they did not know. How we envied their air of confidence and sophisticated manner! We realized our own inexperience during Homecoming Week when we had neither a legitimate banner nor a song.

Somehow we made it! Looking back, it was not that bad. Eventually the juniors and seniors realized that no matter how hard they wished it, we weren't going to go away and adopted a policy of laissez-faire tolerance. The sophomore class showed that it had things to offer, and now that we have made a place for ourselves, we wonder how Pioneer ever got along without us!

ACADEMICS

Although by June it may not seem so, we spend most of our time at Pioneer in academic work. Believe it or not, the primary reason that these teachers and administrators are here is to provide us, as students, with an education. Most of them do their best to interest us in learning. Sure we all gripe about the work and how useless it all seems as we plow through essay after test, after lesson, after paper, but by the time we graduate, there are few students who can actually say they have never enjoyed a feeling of accomplishment in doing an assignment well.

You may have burned a little midnight oil cramming for those history tests, but now you can say something reasonably intelligent about how governments work and what so-and-so said about such-and-such. You can back yourself up when you say that your least favorite politician is making a mistake or when you rave about the writings of a philosopher you admire. Those lab reports just might help you understand a little more about how the world works, and although algebra class may seem interminable, it teaches you logical thinking skills which you will use even if you don't become an engineer. Being fluent (or at least intelligible) in a foreign language may enable you to read literature as it was originally written and makes it easier for you to travel abroad. There is something to be learned from every character you come across, be it Holden Caufield, Oedipus, or Hester Prynne.

The day you hand in a term paper, the only thing on your mind may be how on earth you're going to regain those hours of sleep you lost in staying up all night, drinking coffee to keep your eyes open as you plink away at the typewriter. But when you get the paper back with a better grade than you had expected, you can't help being proud of it because you actually produced something worth reading from a pile of illegible notes and even learned something in the process.

By the time we're done with whatever college board test is being given on a particular Saturday morning, our brains are completely fried. Then there are college applications. The smart ones are those of us who apply early to one school with rolling admissions and know where we're going before Thanksgiving. Others of us sincerely enjoy gazing at towering piles of preliminary applications, forms, final applications, and worst of all, the essays which litter the floor and occupy the typewriter for months. Once these are sent in, there is little to do but bite our fingernails until the spring. And just when we thought it was all over, April showers of tears over rejections or joyful acceptances are followed by more tests in May as some of us suffer through a solid week of AP tests.

Aside from the assignments required for courses, high school should eventually teach you to enjoy learning on your own. It may sound unlikely, but think about it for a minute. Isn't there some topic you've gone on to research on your own after discussing it in class? Haven't there been books assigned for a class which made you wonder what else the author wrote? Although you may not want to admit it, there must have been times school has sparked your curiosity and interested you in learning. So it wasn't all in vain, after all. And now you can pat yourself on the back for working hard (ha ha) at your studies for one more year, and look forward to (yes, look forward to!) future years of learning in school or elsewhere.

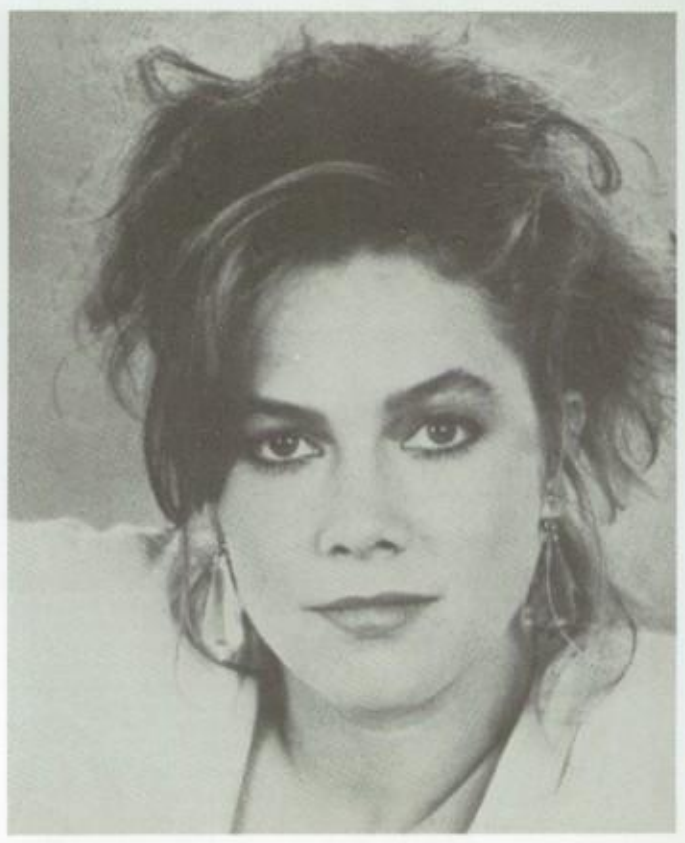
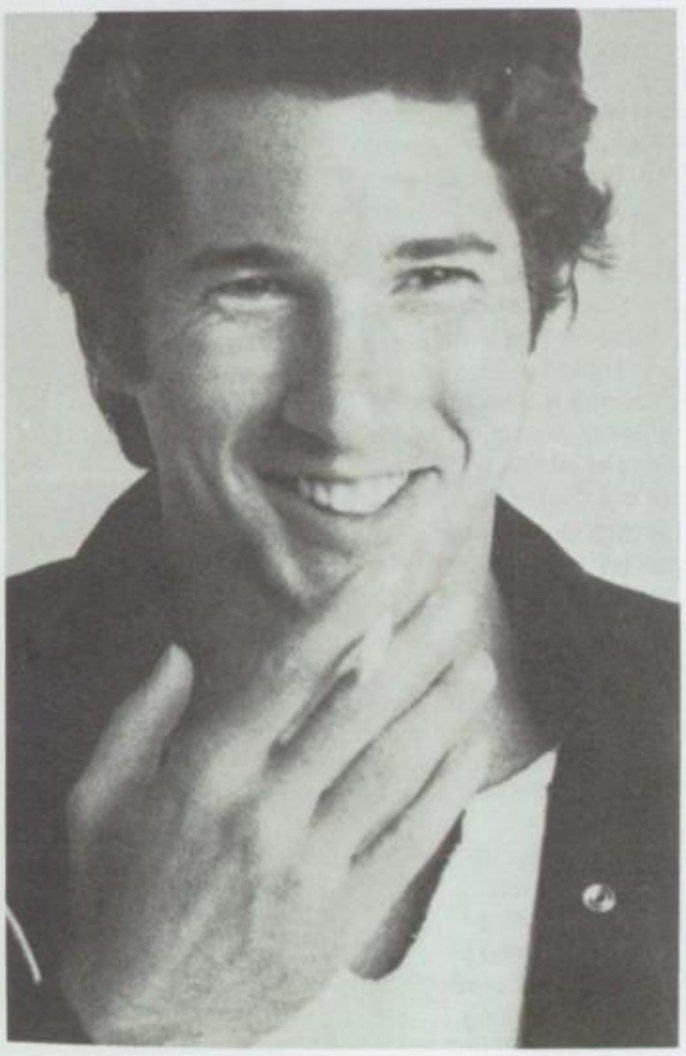
THE YEAR IN ENTERTAINMENT





There were Gremlins to Ghostbusters, Raiders to Romancing the Stone, and Meryl Streep to Eddie Murphy. This year brought continued success for screen producer and director Steven Speilberg. Mr. Speilberg presented a followup to his box office smash Raiders of the Lost Ark with Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom with Harrison Ford. Speilberg's Gremlins falling on the same lines as last year's E.T. featured furry creatures who became destructive under certain conditions.

Eddie Murphy made his debut on TV's Saturday Night Live some years ago satirizing such people as Buckwheat of the Little Rascals and Gumby. Murphy's career got underway with his films Trading Places and 48 Hours. His new smash Beverly Hills Cop dominated box office sales for weeks. In the film Murphy portrays Axel Foley, a persuasive loud-mouthed street cop.

George Burns completed his sequel to Oh God and Oh God Book II with Oh God, You Devil. In the film Burns plays both God and the Devil who exchange favors to help humankind. Meryl Streep completes her newest film with Robert DeNiro. Falling In Love is her newest work following Oscar winning Sophie's Choice.

Ventures into the past include a comical depiction of Mozart in Amadeus and Richard Gere in Cotton Club. The ragtime of the 1920's is brought back in this singing and dancing film represented by the "roaring twenties."

Adventure film, Romancing the Stone launches the career of Kathleen Turner, who portrays a romance writer who succeeds in living out one of her exotic novels. Ghostbusters starring comedians Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd with Harold Ramis and Ernie Hudson became the biggest grossing movie of the year, making over $200 million in the first month.

THEATRE GUILD

It's been a great year for Pioneer's Theater Guild. It all started off with a marvelously successful production of The Wizard of Oz. For the second performance, many timid techies joined up as actors and actresses to help form a fine cast for Our Town. Now ambitious Theater Guilders are setting their hopes on winning the state competition with The Proposal a comedy by Chekov. With the high quality of action, and the skill and dedication of the fine technical crew, I'm sure they'll succeed.

Distributive Education Clubs of America is the only organization formed for the purpose of furthering the goals of students who want to pursue a career in marketing and/or distributive industries. The DECA club furthers these goals by developing a series of academic games competition. This year students will attend a regional, state, and national competition.

DEBATE TEAM

For the first time in many years, Pioneer has a Varsity Debate Team. Debate has a proud history at Pioneer. Glen Virgins all-novice team placed well in state competition. This year, several new members joined the team insuring the future of debate at Pioneer.

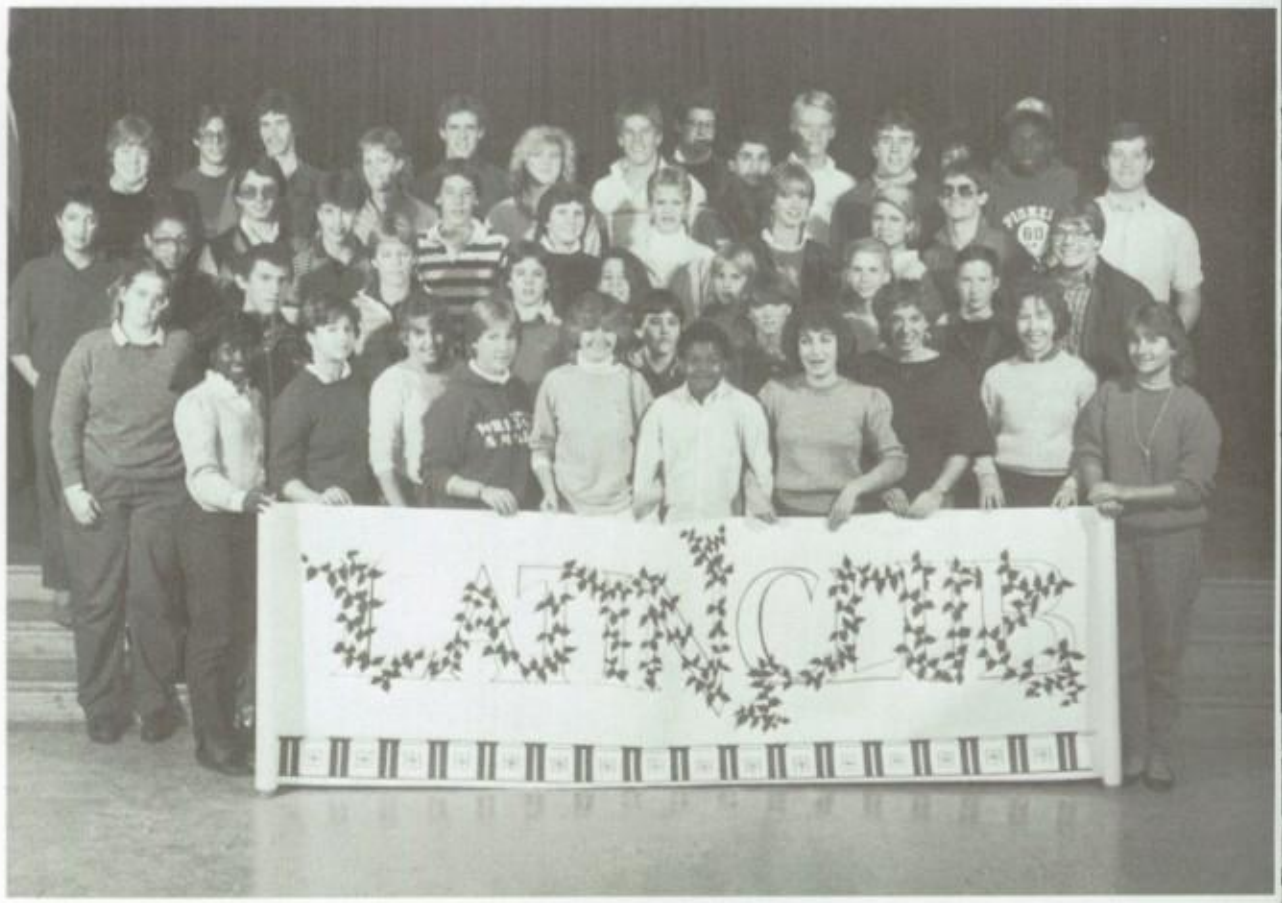
CLUBS/ORGANIZATIONS

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club has had a terrific year. Over spring break the club went on a trip to Mexico which was highly successful. We had a total of 60 members. The officers this year were: president - Kris Sarri, vice president - Kevin McDonald, treasurer - Yvonne Grierson, secretary - Anita Grierson.



LATIN CLUB

The Pioneer Latin Club has a long tradition of being one of the outstanding language clubs in the school. This year the tradition is continued through our large membership, authentic festivities, outstanding leadership, and especially by our upcoming trip to Rome.

Cecile Peek (Holland), Kana Ishiwatari (Japan), Mariko Minagawa (Japan), Georgia Van der Gen (Holland), Karina Segal (Argentina), Celro Mira Sonduisk (Brazil), Lida Nilforoushan (Persia), Vien Nguyen (Viet Nam), Lee Ridley (U.S.A.), Mrs. tons, Mon Boonprohm (Thailand), Ruth Haubensak (Germany), Carl Ostholm (Sweden), Yoto Van der Gen (The Netherlands), Yeroen Rekke (Holland).

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

To be a member of the International Club it is not necessary at all to be from another country than the U.S. Our major interest is to bring together as many people from different countries and cultures as possible. During our meetings somebody usually shows slides and talks about the country he or she is from. There is almost always something special that differs one country from another. We also plan trips and parties so that we can get together and learn to know each other a little better.

GERMAN CLUB

It was an active year for the German club. Christmas caroling, cookie baking, and gummy bear sales were all part of the years activities. The cookie venture was very successful due to zealous sellers. German club members kept late hours baking to fill the many orders. Though late on arrival, gummy bears were sold with speed. The money from both these activities was used to support our German counterparts, or "tubes" as they are called. Accompanied by various instrumentalists, around 20 German students showed up to sing carols in German and English at Lori Terrace and the Saline Hospital the week before winter break.

S.A.D.D.

S.A.D.D. stands for Students Against Drinking and Driving. S.A.D.D. offers rides home to impaired drivers by working with the Red-Cross. We try to educate the community and our peers about the dangers of drinking and driving. One thing S.A.D.D. IS is not an organization against drinking, we feel thats your choice, but when you mix drinking and driving, thats when we get concerned.

RIFLE CLUB

This was a rebuilding year for the Pioneer Rifle Team, after losing all the senior team members to various college rifle teams. There was a good turn out for practices and these rounds helped in the selection of team members. These choices were not written in stone. The best marksmen were picked to compete for Pioneer. Our first shoulder to shoulder match of the season was December 15th. We traveled almost every Saturday. There were also postal matches that were shot. This is a co-ed sport and, if desired will train you in the proper techniques for target riflery.

HOMEBUILDING

The students of the Ann Arbor Homebuilding class have now completed the electrical, heating, insulation and drywall and the house is looking sharp!!!

The brick fireplace which is located in the center of the family room is finished and appears cozy.

The students are now priming the walls, hanging the doors and trimming the inside of the house.

There will be an open house around spring time and the students hope everyone will come and see what beautiful work they can do.

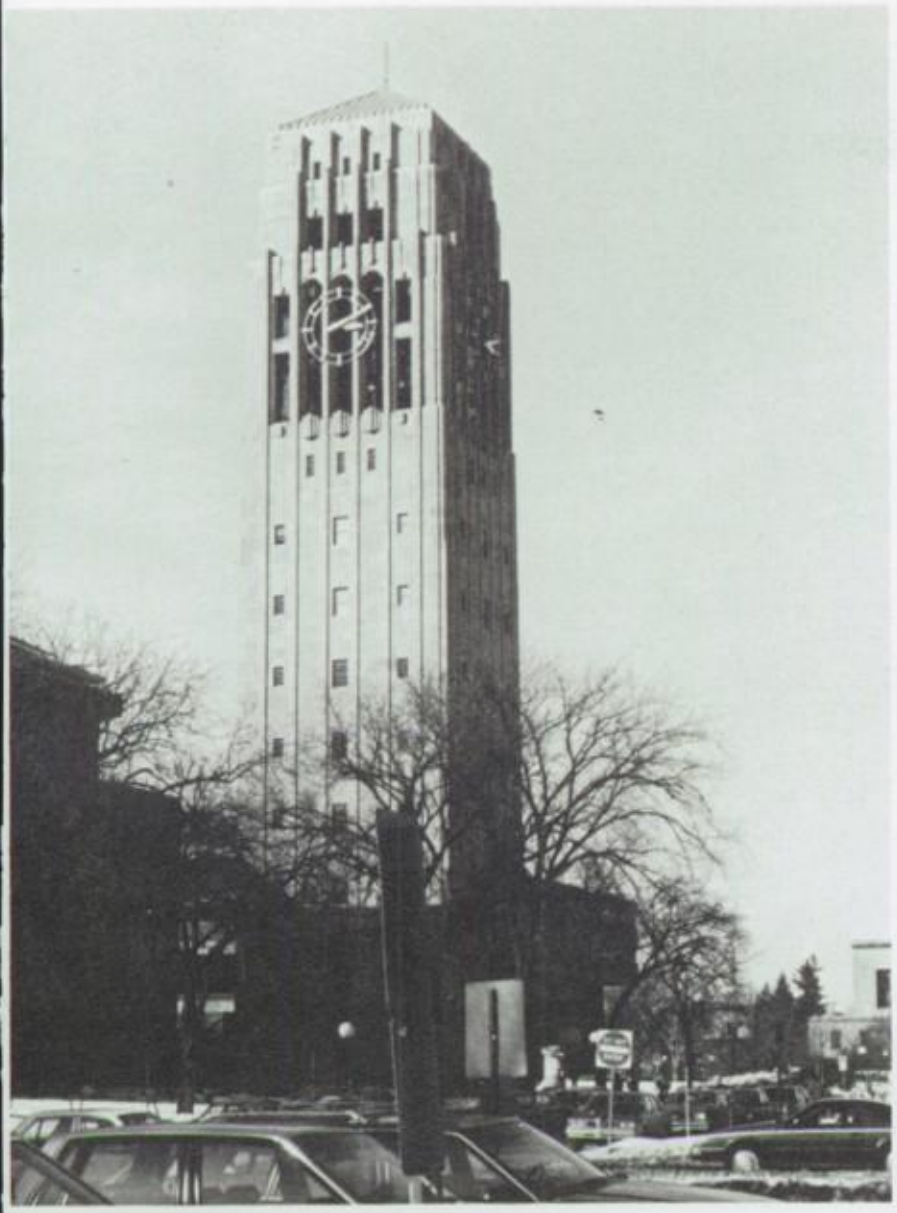
AROUND ANN ARBOR



Ann Arbor, Michigan. Tree town. A^2. Designated All-American city. This is the unique place where we live, work, and play. Its uniqueness comes from the unique people who take pride in living here. Many consider this small city the cream of the cream as it offers endless opportunities for education, recreation, and entertainment.

The University of Michigan is certainly a large part of Ann Arbor. In addition to providing many jobs for the area, the U of M earns a certain respect for Ann Arbor with the quality of its research facilities, sports teams, and, last but not least, the quality of the faculty and students. With such a large number of outstanding people in Ann Arbor it is impossible to see how this could not affect the community in a positive way. Even people not connected with the university benefit from having such an institution in town. The quality of the U of M is bound to trickle into the community in many ways (And if that doesn't prove that Mr. Reagan's trickle-down theory works, then I don't know what will.)

Ann Arbor has countless opportunities to enjoy the arts. In addition to commercial movie houses, campus film organizations feature old movies, foreign films, cult movies, and little-known art films. Classical, jazz, folk, R&B, and rock concerts are held in Hill Auditorium, Michigan Theater, Crisler Arena, and Power Center. Local talent and lesser-known musicians can be heard at such private establishments as The Blind Pig, The Ark, and Joe's Star Lounge (at least for the time being). The university's two radio stations, WUOM and WCBN appeal to a wide variety of musical tastes from the traditional to the avante garde. Power Center and numerous playhouses provide dance and theatrical productions performed by university groups, local performers, and traveling troupes. Ann Arbor's Summer Art Fairs stop downtown traffic for four days. Artists and craftsmen show and sell their wares as street vendors and store owners compete for space and attention. The fairs attract a diverse group of performer/entrepreneurs including jugglers, sidewalk guitarists, jug bands, organ grinders, and magicians.

Ann Arborites can enjoy U of M sports for little expense (c'mon, what's $13.00 for a football ticket?) and lots of fun. Opportunities are available to play most sports in competitive and non-competitive leagues through the Recreation Department.

Ann Arbor's unique atmosphere comes from doing those familiar Ann Arbor-type things: playing frisbee or people-watching on the diag, eating an ice cream cone at The Lovin' Spoonful or Wastenaw Dairy, going to Michigan Stadium on a Saturday in September, browsing through books at Border's, or sitting in the Pantree late at night. But most of all, Ann Arbor's uniqueness comes from its people. Our city has a diversity of individuals, from lollipop-licking toddlers to senior citizens, from right-wing conservatives to long-haired hippie-commie-pinko-weirdo-freaks, from Shakey Jake to jet-set socialites, from stuffy intellectuals to true-blue middle class Americans.

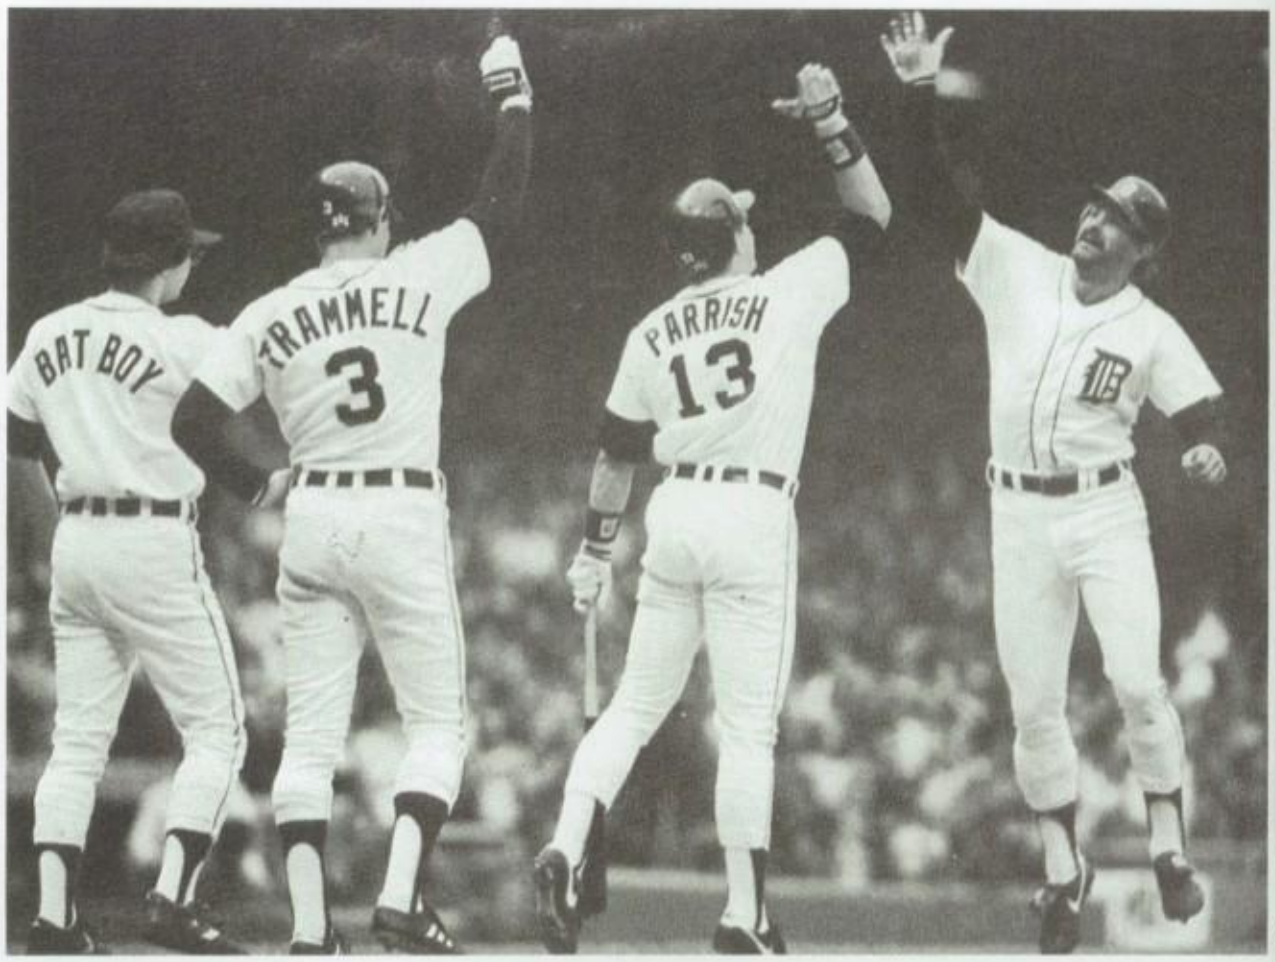
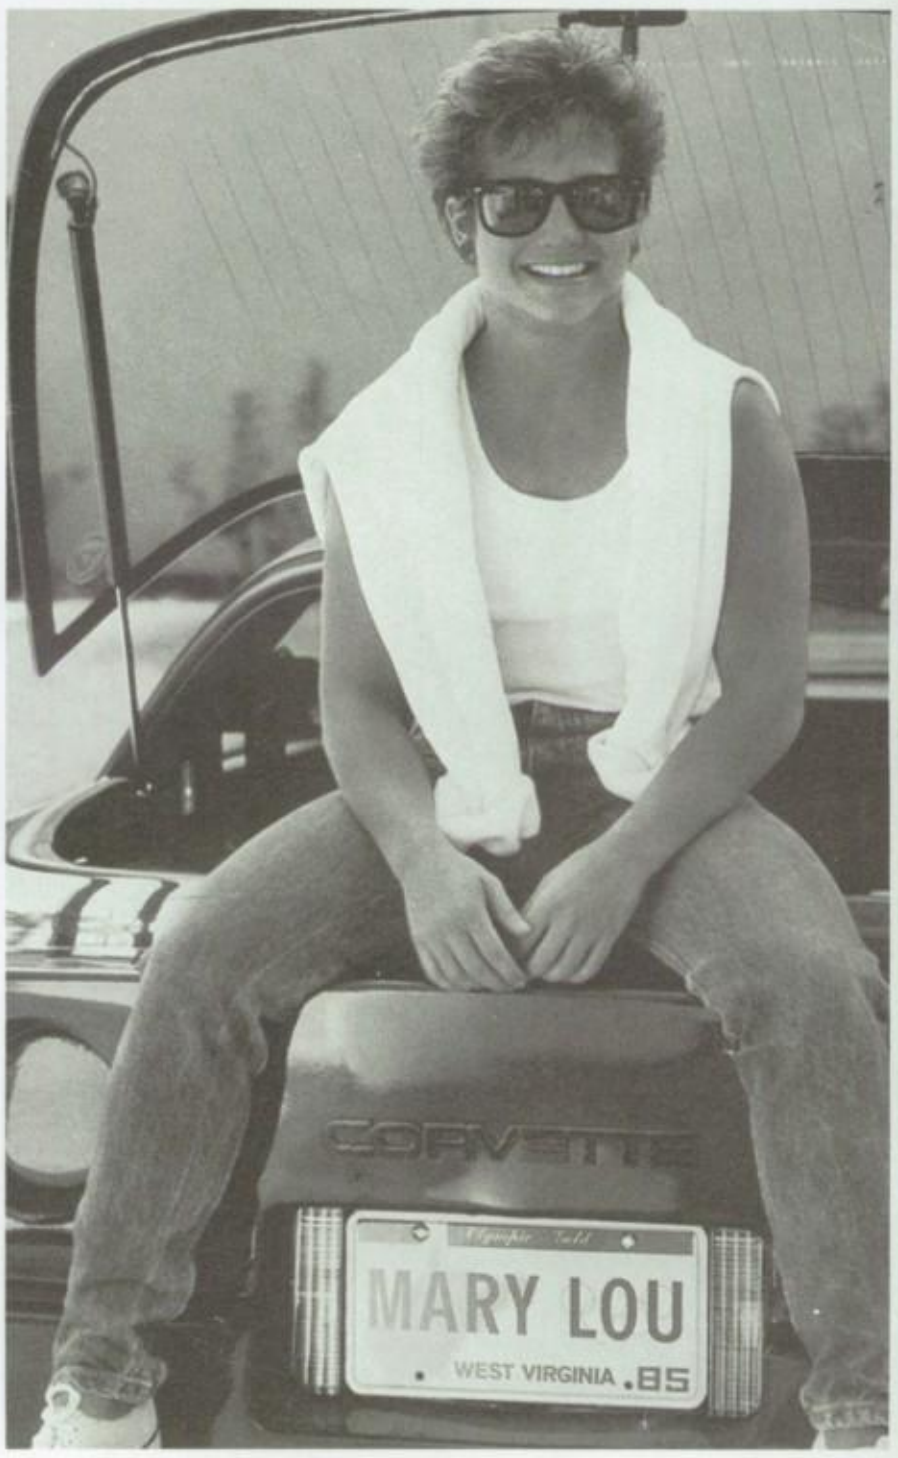
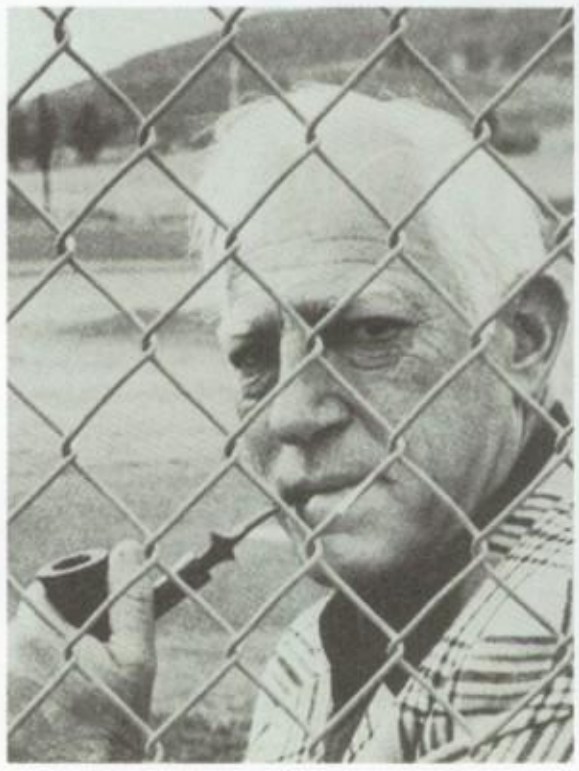
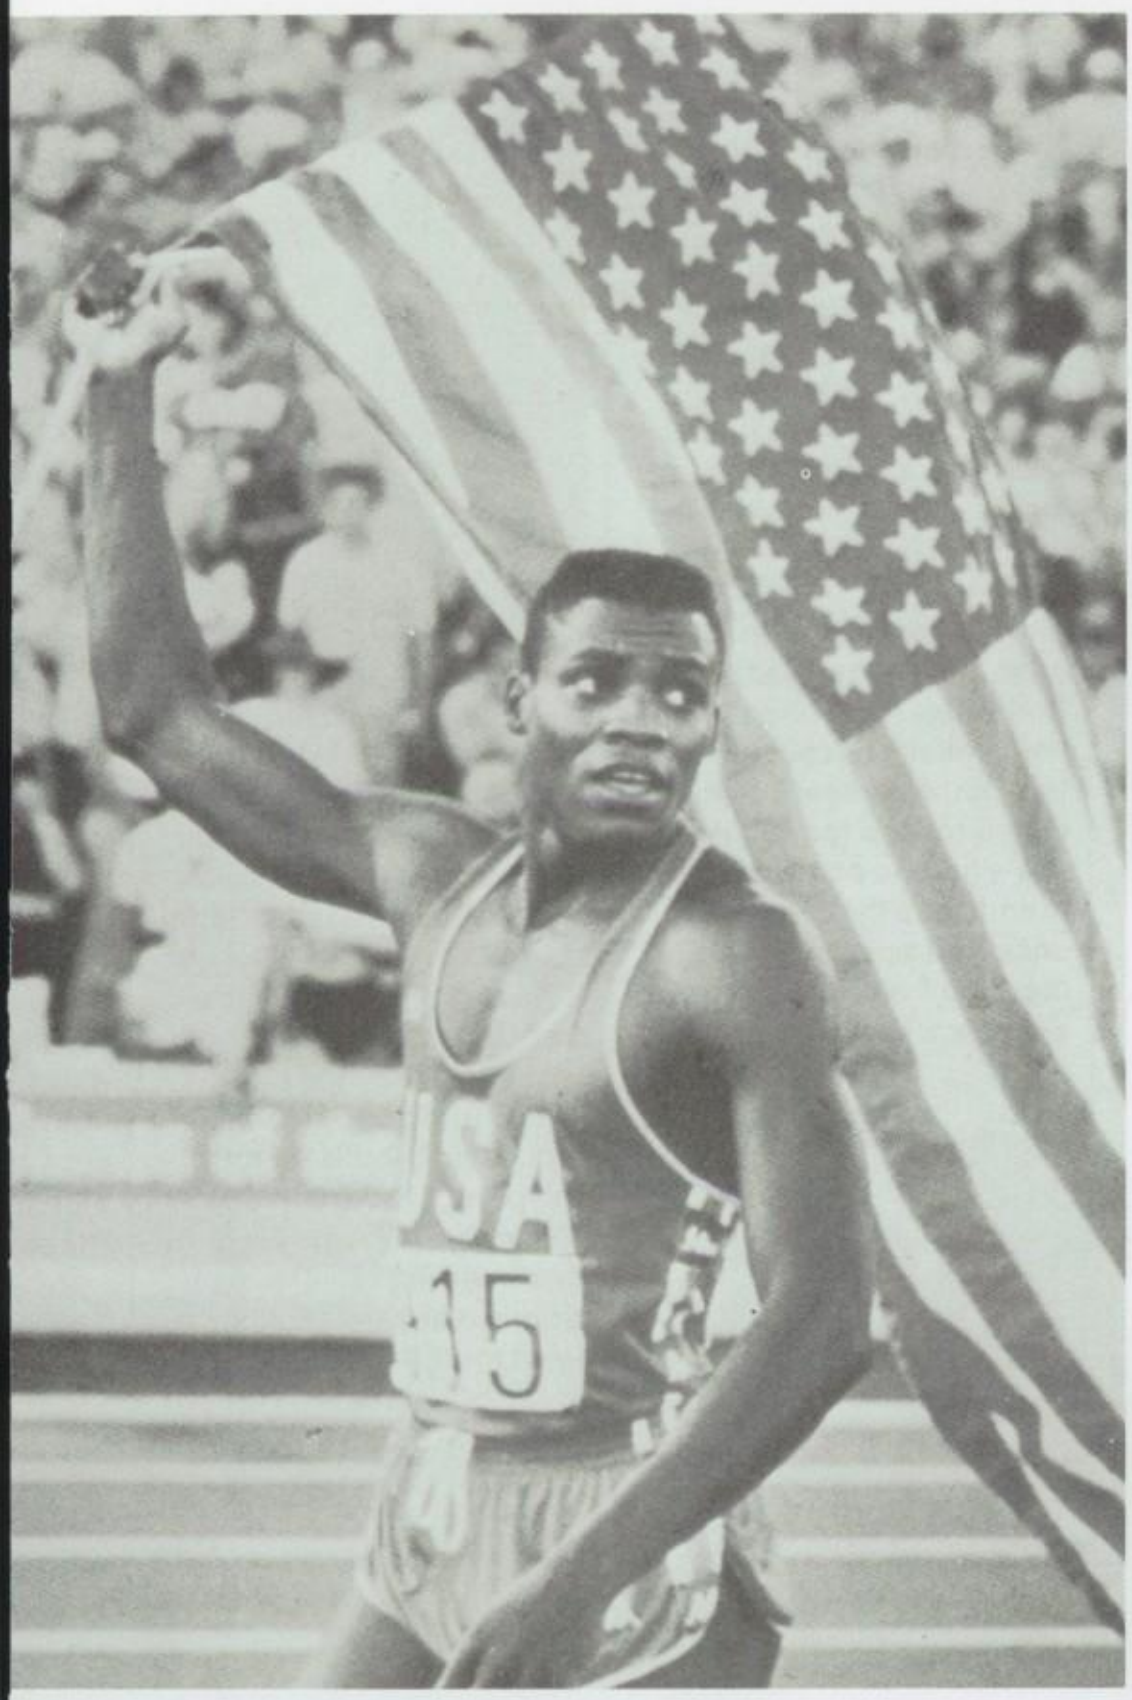
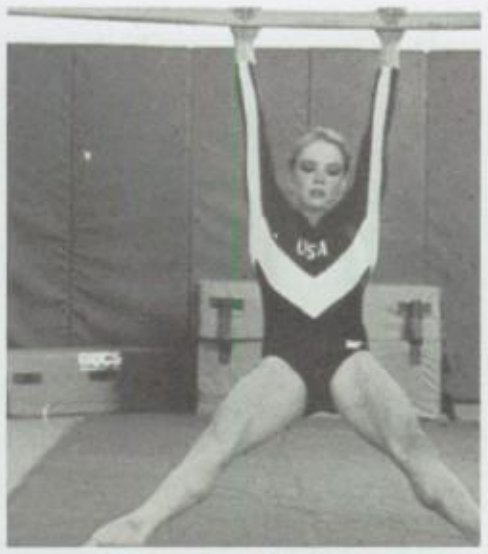
THE YEAR IN SPORTS

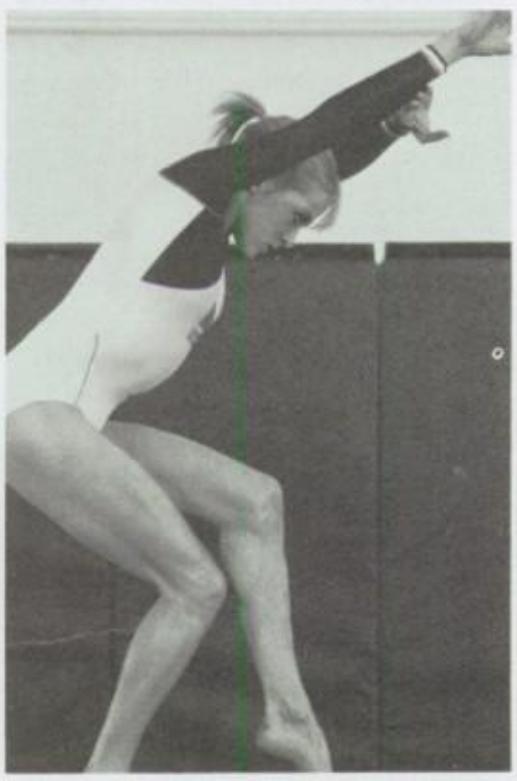












It was a "golden summer" all around. The United States brought in more gold medals than any other country, dominating in gymnastics, diving, swimming, and wrestling. Mary Lou Retton, a sixteen year old gymnast, captured the hearts of people all over America. Carl Lewis, Edwin Moses and Evelyn Ashford received gold medals in track and field. The Los Angeles Olympics culminated years of preparation and building to make the California site more than accomodating to every participating sport. Industrial support and sponsorship of such companies as Coca-Cola and Levis Strauss made it possible for Los Angeles to build new sports and recreation buildings on the site. 1984 was the year that the Soviet Union boycotted the games following an American boycott in 1980.

The University of Michigan football team escaped a losing season by one game and were defeated in the Holiday Bowl by Brigham Young University. The Detroit Tigers captured the title as they defeated the Chicago Cubs to win the World Series. This brought prestige and attention to the city of Detroit and brought fame to coach Sparky Anderson. This prestige earned by Detroit was not followed when the Lions failed to have a winning season, a battle that provoked the urged resignation of coach Monte Clark.

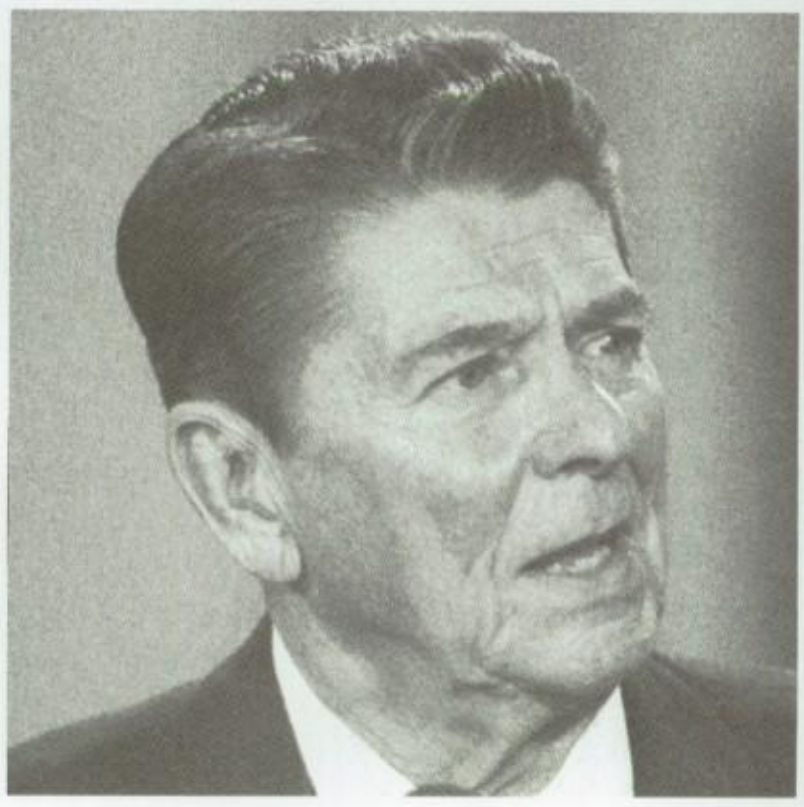
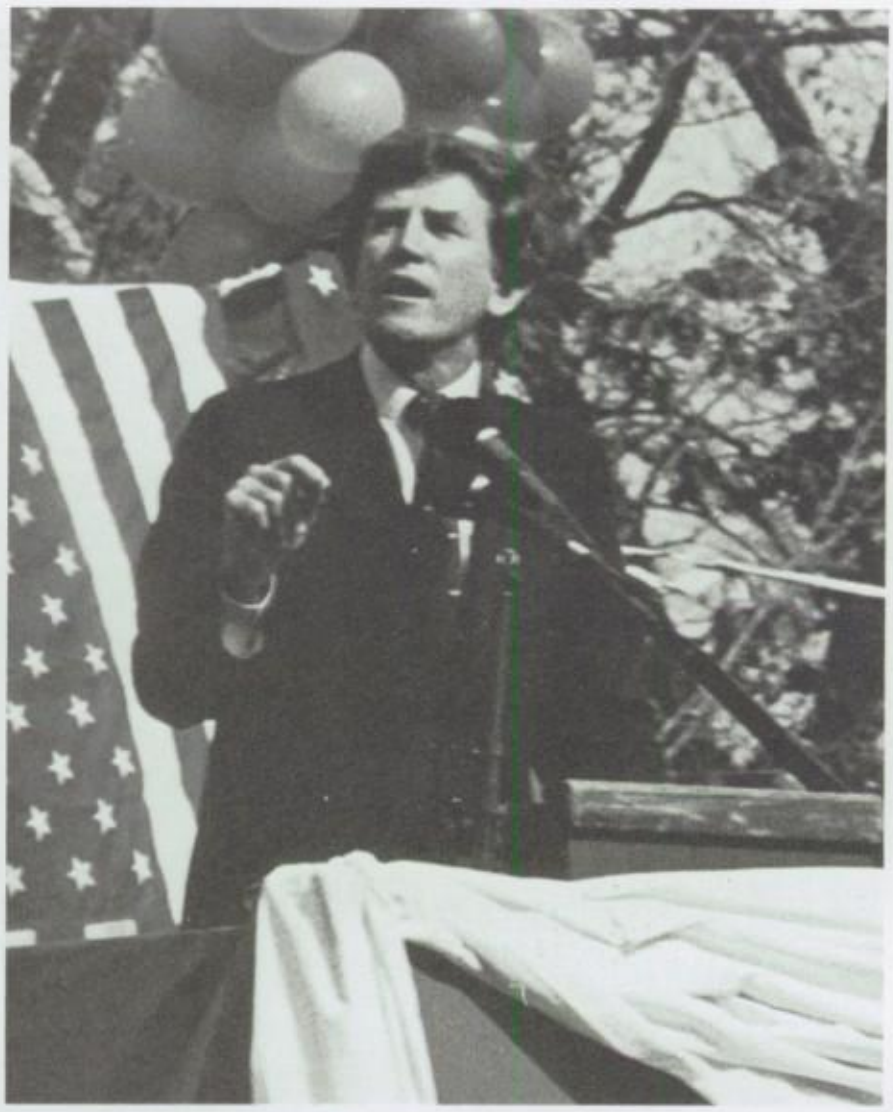
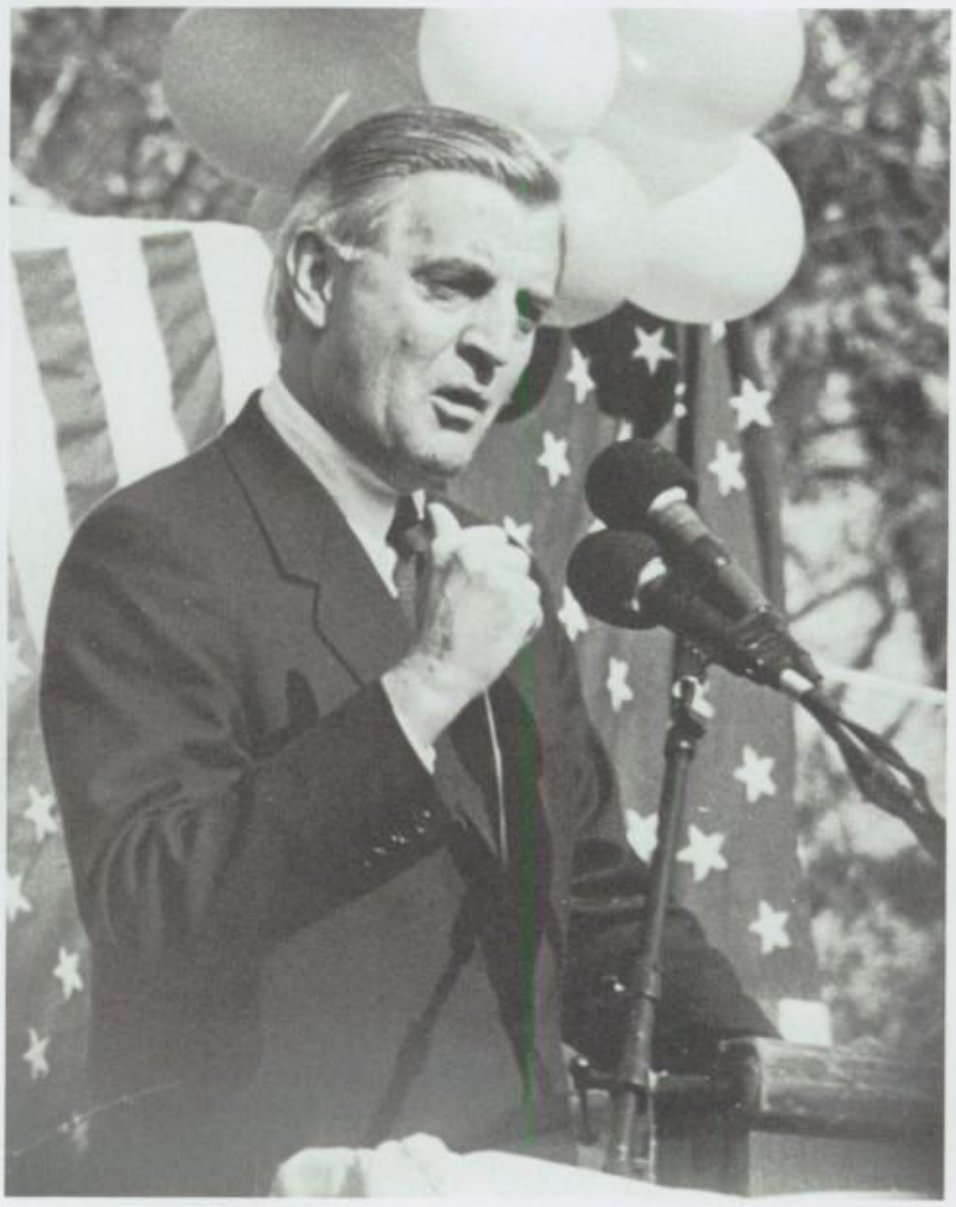
THE YEAR IN NEWS AND POLITICS







THE YEAR IN NEWS AND POLITICS

The summer's national conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties turned out pretty much as expected. Despite Gary Hart's supporters' confidence that his late increase in popularity would carry through, the Democrats selected former vice-president Walter "Fritz" Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro to run against incumbents Ronald Reagan and George Bush. Republican speakers included Howard Baker and Jeanne Kirkpatrick, a registered Democrat who strongly supports the conservative Republicans. Democrats such as Jesse Jackson and New York's Mario Cuomo participated in their convention and will surely continue to be prominent in national politics. Ferraro did not bring in the female nor the Italian votes for the Democrats. The ticket did not even win her own district in Queens of New York City. But Ferraro was prominent throughout the campaign and was acclaimed as the first woman to appear on the national ticket of a major party. Her husband was accused of tax fraud and this complicated questions of ethics and etiquette which arose with the new sex roles.

The press continually cited Reagan as the "most popular president" in recent years, although the gallup poles showed that only about half the public approves of the way he is handling his job. As he is a former actor, his aides capitalized on his polished camera image, providing instances for countless photos in public and private situations. News reporters, however, have found him inaccessible with only 26 full press conferences in four years compared to 59 in the former administration.

Mondale sharply contrasted Reagan's personal charisma and slick image. He projected as an honest, likeable man, but the voters considered him dull as he lost the November election in a massive land-slide, winning only the District of Columbia and his home state of Minnesota. Mondale appeared with Gary Hart, popular among students, at a rally on Ann Arbor's Diag this fall. It was attended by huge numbers of people, among them many high school students from Pioneer.

Internationally, Pierre Elliott Trudeau resigned as prime minister of Canada. Indian Sikhs assassinated Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. She was succeeded by her son, Rajiv. Konstantin Chernenko's poor health and infrequent appearances have led experts to speculate on the future of the Soviet Gerontocracy. Andrei Gromyko made headlines with his prominence as Soviet Foreign Secretary, as did the relatively young Mikhail Sergeevich Gorbachev in the politburo.

The presence of U.S. military troops continued to be felt in the Mideastern countries and the Persian Gulf, and in Latin America where the U.S. was actively involved in the political struggles of such countries as Nicaragua, Honduras, and El Salvador.

The year's tragedies included the random massacre of 21 people and the wounding of 19 others in the McDonald's of San Ysidro, California. The killer, James Huberty, was shot 90 minutes after he began the massacre by a SWAT sharpshooter. In Mexico City, a gas explosion killed 365 people and a gas leak in India caused many more deaths. In Ethiopia, over a million people died of starvation, although the U.S. and other countries provided aid. Twelve died in the bombing of the U.S. embassy in Beirut, and 28 year-old David Kennedy died of drug overdose in a Florida hotel. Happier news items included the arms talks between the U.S. and Russia and the presentation of the Nobel Peace Prize to Bishop Desmond Tutu.

THE YEAR IN NEWS AND POLITICS

This is no Adlai Stevenson. There's no Albert Einstein here. Americans don't demand that. He really does represent the quintessential American.
—David Garth (Democratic Campaign consultant) on Ronald Reagan.

They tell me that I'm the most powerful man in the world. I don't believe that. Over there in the White House someplace, there's a fellow that puts a piece of paper on my desk every day that tells me what I'm going to be doing every 15 minutes. He's the most powerful man in the world.
—President Reagan

If you take him on head-on in a popularity contest, you're going to come out with a bloody fist instead of his coming out with a bloody nose.
—Robert Strauss (former Democratic National Chairman) on Regan

I wouldn't bet the ranch on it. But I would bet the main house. And, unless the economy goes down, I wouldn't even bet the outhouse on Mondale.
—Richard Nixon on Reagan's chances for re-election

Charisma is a spiritual gift. It's not my fault other people have to use other things — like commercials.
—Jesse Jackson

It made my teeth hurt
—Reuven Frank (ex-president of NBC News on Reagan's 18-minute promotional film

Gary Hart? He's the more glamorous candidate by far, but once you get beneath the blow-dry haircut there is a lack of substance.
—Betty Frieden (feminist writer)

He was the handsomest-looking man you ever laid your eyes on, bar none.
—Barbara Bush on her husband

Mondale cannot, whatever he does, kiss her
—Patrick Caddell (polister) on the new etiquette required of Mondale to Ferraro

DEATHS

The year brought the death of Marvin Gaye, singer and songwriter, whose single, "Sexual Healing," was number one for several weeks, and whose earlier motown style produced such songs as "Through the Grapevine". Andy Kaufman, star of TV's "Taxi" and guest star on Saturday Night Live; Ethel Merman, of Broadway and Ansel Adams, landscape photographer and conservationalist, passed away this year as did the great Count Basie, jazz musician of the Big Band era, Martin Luther King Sr., Atlanta pastor and father of Martin Luther King Jr., the Civil Rights leader, and Lillian Hellman, one of America's leading playwrights.

CAMP — A PRELUDE TO PONTIAC

Dusty trails, gritted teeth, and miles and miles of wilderness, although this vast wasteland seemed to be even more massive than this. Infested greenland rarely seen, but by those who seemed to err to allow time for their bodies to catch up with their minds. Ever so slowly the days burned on — even the cold managed to set in, but this select crowd was inspired, inspired by the glory and respect that comes with victory, both of which they would rightfully deserve and achieve. For their own benefit it was clear that opponents should stay home, because — this was to be the year of the dome . . .

And so it was.

Congratulations to all Ann Arbor Pioneer State Champions. The fine athletes who participated in Swimming, Field Hockey, Water Polo, and Football who, in addition to Prince helped coin the slogan . . . "Purple Reigns."

LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE

This year the A Cappella choir and symphony orchestra brought Rick Besoyans' highly successful musical, Little Mary Sunshine, to the Schrieber auditorium stage. The music department's bi-annual extravaganza opened Tuesday, February 19 at 4:30 p.m. and continued through the weekend of February 22 and 23 at 8:00 p.m.

Since the end of November, Pioneer students and staff have been hard at work to make this year's musical a big success. All members of the A Cappella choir and Symphony orchestra have contributed to the production and many students have taken on extra responsibilities as student chair persons. Some of the students are: Judy Swain and Tony Sleet for set crew, Susan Faulstick, publicity, Jane Gustine, ticket sales, Doug Gilbertson, advertising, Cindy Downs, costume design, Kris Schrader, prop committee, Katie Rudolph, assistant to the director, and Laurel Reitman assistant to the musical director, and many others.

The adult staff included: Mr. Jim Piper - director and stage movement Ken Tootel - set design, Barbara Mostaghin - costume design, T.D. Theofil - choreographer, Marijean Quigly - orchestra director, Mary Johnson - business director, and Ken Westerman as music director and producer.

Little Mary Sunshine is the story of a young maiden named Mary Potts who runs an inn high in the Colorado Rockies. When the curtain rises, Little Mary is greeted by a unit of stout-hearted forest rangers, led by none other than the perfect man and ranger himself, Captain "Big Jim" Warington. The rangers soon met with a bevy of young ladies vacationing from the east. They all fall in love. However a shadow looms over the general happiness when the rangers are called on a dangerous mission to search out an evil Indian named Yellow Feather. Yellow Feather turns out to be Little Mary's adopted Indian brother thought dead. The play is filled with all the heroes and heroines anyone could desire.

Playing the title role was Kristy Large, a junior. Costarring is Tom Ferguson, a sophomore, as Captain "Big Jim" Warington. Other parts are portrayed by Joyce Collins, Krista Nance, Todd Hart, Paul Sweeny, Doug Gilbertson, Chip Rubin, and Moon-kie Chung.

CLOSING

And finally we come to the last page of the Omega, a book which concludes another year at Pioneer High School, just as the letter it is named for concludes the Greek alphabet. Just as the omega symbol has endured for ages, we hope that the contents of this book will remind you of your times at Pioneer in years to come.

The yearbook staff started out trying to please all of the people all of the time, but for obvious reasons we amended our aim to merely trying to please most of the people most of the time and found that even this is a formidable task. Of course, there are many things I would like to change if we had the chance to do it all over again, but when I remember the unbelievable amounts of time and energy that so many people put into the production of this book, I must say that all of us are proud of the fruits of our labor. I, for one, have not only learned a lot about the production process and its journalistic and aesthetic aspects, but have also gotten to know many people I would not have met if it weren't for the yearbook. So I guess I have learned a thing or two at Pioneer.

There are an incredible number of sincerely-meant thank-yous in order, more than I could possibly list. But I personally wish to thank my associate editor, Jennifer, for her conscientiousness and levelheadedness, as well as Charlie and Max for all the times they made us laugh when we were sure the world was going to come crashing down on our heads.

Again, I do hope this yearbook serves its purpose for each of you who reads it. Some of us leave Pioneer sadly but with happy memories; others of us feel differently, and some still have a couple years here to make up our minds. Certainly not one of us can say that we are the same people we were at the beginning of this year. I hope that this Omega will help you remember the person you were in 1985 when you re-open it years from now. The best of luck to everyone, particularly to next year's Omega staff.
